Announcement of a special session at
6th EUROSIM Congress on Modelling and Simulation
September 9-13, 2007, Ljubljana, Slovenia

Simulation in Economics and Business

Economics and business are expanding areas where modelling and simulation techniques can be successfully applied. The research in this field is intensive and practical applications are more and more frequent. This session will provide a context to share and exchange ideas and results in this evolving area of research: academics and practitioners are invited to submit papers on the theoretical foundations and practical applications of modelling and simulation techniques in economics and business. Special topics of interest include, but are not limited to the following focusing on:

Modelling and Simulation Methodologies:

- new concepts and paradigms for simulation modelling in economics and business
- new techniques and tools for simulation modelling in economics and business

Applications, case studies, and results of empirical investigations in the following areas:

- simulation modelling of business processes
- simulation modelling in industry, logistics, production
- simulation modelling in e-business, SCM and CRM
- simulations in finance, marketing and banking
- intelligent models and hybrid systems for business information management and decision support
- agent-based simulation models (microsimulations) in economics and business
- techno-economic modelling with systems' dynamics
